

THE SILVER LINING

Grabill, Indiana

Vol. 9, No. 9

The Silver Lining

In October of 1943 the first issue was published, and mailed to about 35 addresses. A great part of these were boys in the service in the second world war.

At the time, there were twenty boys out of our congregation, mostly from the Sunday School, in service. It was suggested that there should be some way to keep in contact with the boys. We saw fit to publish the Silver Lining, as we saw no better way to keep in contact with our boys.

In a short time it began to grow, till the Silver Lining was mailed to many in the service, of those we were able to get the address, and others. Today about 130 are still mailed to those in the service, almost the world over.

Many Silver Linings are mailed today to many homes.

The writer of the first Silver Lining was J. A. Getz of Morton, Illinois. Also, a sermon was published by Elder Henry Souder, deceased 35 years ago.

We receive many letters of appreciation from those that receive the paper. Thanks to each news reporter and writer for their part in this work.

We receive a number of letters asking what the subscription rate is. There is no subscription rate. It's supported by free-will offerings.

There is a need for writers. We wish to invite elders, ministers, and other brothers to give us writings. All writings are checked and edited for corrections and what cannot be published for some reason or another.

If there is anyone who wishes to make some suggestions, we hope everyone will feel free in expressing their opinion. We have had suggestions to get the Silver Lining out more often. The news reporters could give us news of later happenings. We would like to get it out monthly as it was at the first, the Lord willing.

God's Glorious Millennial Vacation

"But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Micah 4:1-3

"... not my will, but thine..."

Henry Souder, Jr.

There is a home . . .

Where the joys of a perfect vacation are with the cozy, heart-warming comforts of the place one always just loves to be.

Where the family is for always, and love is simply marvellous.

Where God is, in untold, glorious beauty, and warm satisfaction fills the heart.

We interrupt your moments . . . your program of this day's existence . . . with wonderful news that can bring eternal life, joy, and peace to you.

"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder."

Sometimes the city lay impearled in His moon-light . . . sometimes in a silver symphony of beauty the nighted mountain glowed.

This was His Gethsemane . . .

Gardened . . .

Quiet . . .

At rest.

He often resorted thither . . . He who had brought the joy of sight to a nighted vision . . . had brought to a widowed mother her once faded flower alive, in health's morning flush. He who had quieted the aching heart . . . and brought glory to the tear-filled eye.

"And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy."

FLAMING GLORY LIGHTS FROM HOME!

He came from His Father's house. Way back before time was, in the startling everlasting, He and the Father walked in closest love.

Angels knew Him face to face, and worshipped in awesome reverence.

Perfect Life is Life with God.

But, oh, how sin had wrecked the soul! It had warped and blasted, mutilated and killed. It had crept in at the crevices, craftily crushed to sin-deformity . . . Strange, mangled vision, chasing its world-focused sights.

In deeply fulfilled moments, He draws about His own guiltless breast our homelessness . . . that we might come home.

"And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, Saying,"

He who held the stars in His clasp came, a Light shining in darkness.

Home is where you know by being there and love your own. Its description must be felt, its joys experienced. Home is the place of the redeemed soul, the rest of peace in God's inner rooms.

This is the why of Gethsemane: It is the cost of the Dream of the Father and the Son . . .

That those who had not known may know the glorious, golden Light of His love-warmth Home.

So He knelt on Olivet's nighted ground.

"Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done."

Gethsemane, those deepest reaches we feel so feeble to see. We stand on the edge of a startling suffering.

The keen knife of Calvary's justice must have only a submitted Saviour's soul.

A heavenly "yes" did tie with tested truth the willing Lamb . . . did place Him in ready meekness, ready to die.

Comfort and peace for you and me are really won with the deep bleeding of a Saviour's life.

Pleasurized moments, how little you afford in this faint wisp of time. Fiction-fixed drama, how hollow your trampling echo, how void your screeching screen! Voice of the world, how withered your touch, how vain your moments!

At Gethsemane, we stand on the threshold of everlasting and spiritually rich splendor.

"And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him."

What heavenly emotions must have struck such rich beauty in the heart of the heavenly Father!

His own dear Son . . . cherished and loved perfectly from everlasting . . . His seat in the Home now empty . . . but yet He is so touchingly close that He was in heaven.

The song-filled house was saddened . . . funeral-saddened. Angels bosomed their tear-filled hearts. Never before in the annals of everlasting had truth reached so touching a moment.

He had provided a substitute one day before for another one. But this Father's heart must walk that last weary mile.

This was the death day of His Son . . . His own, and God in Him must drain the dregs for the penal justice of eternity.

Death . . . for God . . . really so . . . so startlingly appalling! . . . so awesomely real! . . .

"And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground."

There will be a day when hiding man can no longer shut his soul with hideous excuses.

There is coming a moment when eternity beats its hot, flamed waves and entangles the convicted prisoner in the gapless weeping and gnashing of teeth. It is the final wage.

The din and the doom crescendo in deepening gloom . . . and men depart forever into forlorn black, black wastes . . .

With no end.

Too late! The beautiful call has been slipped past! The roar of the empty and vanishing moments . . . further and further . . .

But if you listen now when He calls . . . if you cry out earnestly for mercy and grace . . . God will hear.

You can if He wills . . . and He wills if you will.

That's the reason of Gethsemane.

Look at that dear Saviour, His perspiring forehead spent for you. So intimately it affects us, for His struggle was no less than shouldering the familiar shame of our guilty heart.

"How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?"

In deepest workshop, He really paid the price for your sin.

Hear the whine of the whip as it struck blood-biting blows for redemption's price. Think of it, the thorn, crushed by man's calloused hand, splinters and pricks that head so wonderfully beautiful.

Gethsemane won Calvary.

Its will won for the tragic slave with the burdened heart, beautiful peace.

The rude wood arched the flood of a nighted darkness.

They watched Him there.

There, hanging between heaven and earth . . . yes, actually crucified with crude, wide nails . . . with outstretched hands pierced and bleeding . . . with feet fastened and hurt so intensely real.

Look!

Those nail-pierced Hands, don't you see them stretch out to you? All the tenderness of a world of love and sunrise is in their wonderful touch.

Ony prayer away is power to do what He asks . . . to repent, with His heavenly power . . . to bring your sins at long last and be free . . . to know the glory of His Tomorrow.

Sermon by the Elder Henry Souder

Delivered on October 8, 1922

St. Matthew 7

(Note: A short part has been omitted.)

If we are willing, having the good will and having faith in Jesus to not only hear or read the words which He has spoken, because as we have heard and often spoken of that not in hearing are we blessed but in doing, but also to do that which it says. And if we are so willing to obey the teachings of what Jesus our Saviour has spoken in this and also a few of the chapters before, we shall read the teaching of where Christ was up on a mountain and of where He assembled together His disciples and gave them His teachings. Now if we are willing to believe that these are words which He has spoken Himself and that He is also willing to hear our prayers asking of Him what we are in need of, because He is keeping His Father's teachings.

If God was to take us away from this life, He should find us in the straight and narrow way and not in the wide path. With our sins and by our strength we can do nothing, but if we trust, and also consider, what we feel we are in need of and what we are lacking, we can ask, for God is willing to give these things to us. We will not be judged if we believe and trust in Him. The Saviour has preached on the mount to great multitudes and He compared the people to a house. And the storm may come and the wind will blow our house down. They will not build on the sand but on the rocks where they can lay a solid foundation. And if we are wise we will build according to His good teachings and He is the Rock and the firm foundation. Therefore, those who are willing to enter into the straight gate, if I am not mistaken His disciples came unto Him, and He taught them that a few would be saved. He said, We shall enter into the straight gate. It may at times seem a little hard and discouraging, but if we will keep in the straight path and stay true to Him we will have our reward by getting through the straight gate. The other gate is so wide, but we forget where it will lead to. We have to be on the watch. We know that from the beginning He taught us what was displeasing unto Him, and what if He should come and find us all in sin and doing deeds displeasing to Him, we are after all leading a different life. But we must do as we pray unto Him and He has to put the will into our hearts. Jesus hears our prayers and heals our wounded spirits. Jesus has the power to cast out devils and we can read of such devils and being cast out of the hearts of the people. Of course, we all possess a will and God will not take that away from us that we will be kept from temptation; whereby we might be lost and cast into the fire that so long has burned and cannot be quenched. It is our desire that we could put more trust in Him.

If Jesus should come and find us all just as we are doing now, what would we do or say?—We would say, "O! can't God help us?" Some may think that after a person is a Christian it is easy for him not to enter into temptation, but not so. We have to keep right on the straight path and not give the evil one a chance.

We can both love and fear God. If children have fear of their parents and not love, they will not be bought up the right way, and if they have love and no fear, they will be disobedient. And so it must be fear and love together.

We sing that song — "Nearer My Home, Nearer my home today than I have been before," and one place it is—"Nearer my home today, perhaps than now I think." God has given us the warning, and we cannot say—"God did not give me a chance." Often little children are called as we have found in the times past. The children are saved as long as they are innocent. "Suffer the little children to come unto me . . . ." God said we cannot come into the kingdom of Heaven (except) as little children.

The Lord's children sometimes get into trouble, we find, but we should take the good children for a pattern. Even if sometimes something may happen, the Lord accepts our prayers. As we sing in one of the beautiful songs—"When we all get to Heaven, what a day of rejoicing that will be." And so we want to prepare ourselves, especially also our children. Accept the preaching of John, whose words are still kept in store if his body is dead. The words have to go on yet. When he came, he said everyone should prepare themselves. God is warning everyone that when the Lord comes there will not be any more time. And as we have already mentioned let us consider eternity a little. What is our life compared to eternity. As it is written, three score and ten or four score. Perhaps one may live eighty years. There is now and then one that will live ninety or one hundred. But what is 100 years compared to eternity? And when this life is over, we will enter into eternity, whether it is Heaven or not.

Sometimes members will get careless and then they will enter into temptation. They should try instead to be a light and an example to the others. (Sometimes people say there is no God and so you see we have tests.) If we want to be willing we must accept and eat the whole Lamb. When Moses went to take the children of Israel out of Egypt, God told them to slay a lamb and to eat the whole lamb. And now we have a Lamb slain for us and it is Jesus. And we are to accept the whole teaching and we cannot expect to do that which we want to do and then expect to meet God in Heaven. We all want to make heaven our home and to take the cup which was spoken of (and which is so much better for the flesh).

If we want to get to Heaven, we cannot get there by our own will but by the will of God. But we have to pray to the Saviour, If it be possible that this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt. We don't know, dearly beloved, in what way we are to enter into the Heavenly Kingdom. Let it be as it will if God will only strengthen us.

Some people will say that God will not take the words spoken in the Bible so seriously. That is a lie. And if one has the privilege, he will tell us we take it too closely or too strictly. He should take the Word himself to see if we are taking it too seriously. The gate is straight and the way is narrow. But Satan will try to tempt us; the Lord is our guide. If people just take that part of the teaching that pleaseth them they will find it hard to pray. If you find your task hard, try again. We are in the school of Jesus Christ, but we sometimes find it so easy not to take the teaching strictly. But if we do we will enter into the hands of our Saviour.

Elder Brother Joe Wittmer continues in poor health.

Brother Joe Aberle was installed as a regular minister by the Sabetha Church February 9th.

Brother George Strahm passed away March 23rd at his home, after long illness and much suffering. We feel what God did was well done and we wish him his rest. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife Anna and daughter Alma Grimm, a brother, Dan Strahm and a sister Mary (John) Hartter, all of this place, also many other relatives and friends. Funeral services Thursday morning, March 26th. No more information can be given at this writing.

Sister Albertina Steiner is much improved since her stay of a week in the hospital and is at home again.

Brother and Sister Charles and Irene Griggs of Topeka were with us Sunday, March 21.

Sunday, March 15th, some of the members from the Country Church came to town to worship with us, when they were out of heat as a result of an explosion some time Saturday night in their heating system. It was thought the explosion was caused by the electric system, which was damaged by the violent storm which hit this community Saturday night, which did considerably damage to electric and telephone service, also to some buildings and autos. The damage was repaired and house-cleaning completed by the week-end, and services were held the next Sunday.

Brother Dan Steiner was taken to Albert Lee, Minnesota for treatment, after three weeks in the hospital. We hope he will soon recover and be able to return home. He was taken by his son, Dr. Leon Steiner, who came down to get him Sunday, March 21.— We wish him God's grace and a speedy recovery.

“Love is so patient and so kind; Love never boils with jealousy; It never boasts, is never puffed with pride; It does not act with rudeness, or insist upon its rights; It never gets provoked, it never harbors evil thoughts; Is never glad when wrong is done, But always glad when truth prevails; It bears up under anything, It exercises faith in everything, It keeps up hope in everything, It gives us power to endure in anything.”
