Part of God's Portrait of the End

"And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him: and the king of the north shall come against him like a whirlwind, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships . . .

He shall stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of Egypt shall not escape . . .

But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the glorious holy mountain; yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: . . ." From Daniel 11 and 12

Ye Must Be Born Again

As I herewith submit a "Treatise On Conversion and The Way To Life In Christ Jesus" for publication in the Silver Lining (in installments), believing that this material is sound and worthy of publication, I want to givet full credit for this material to Ben Sommer, the author, who was a truly converted man, and has been able to write the experiences of a true conversion in such plain language.

THE AWAKENING

When the divine light begins to dawn in a human soul, and the soul becomes aware of its uncleanness and unworthiness, what is more natural than that one should resolve to mend his ways, to discontinue doing the things which the quickened conscience shows him to be wrong, and to do better!

Thus begins the first skirmish of a battle which is to go through many stages, before victory is won and the soul finds liberation from the power of darkness and evil.

Often, as long as one is a willing servant of sin, he is apt to harbor the illusion that, should he choose to do so, he could any time, at will, throw off his vices and live a virtuous life. It is only after the soul has challenged the power of sin, by making a resolve to cease from sinning, that the soul discovers how great is the power of sin over it.

Wise are they who at this state learn quickly to seek Jesus Christ,

Skyline of Splendor

Henry Souder, Jr.

Dateline: June . . . Chicago, Illinois.

Church is at 2122 Sunnyside. Sometimes the windows are open . . . and the look out is to fresh air and sunshine sparkling among leaves.

The gold glass and the blue, the dark red and other hue shine with the symphony from the sky.

God's people meet here. They are His gems.

"For God . . . hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Immense reality has wrought happiness in heavenly harbors.

The remarkable facts are that God has acted. United with Him, our spirit dwells in the heavenlies.

That inner part of us, beyond mere feelings and emotions, experiences a world wondrous in those heavenly breathings of the Spirit.

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them . . ."

Chicago date line . . .

The towers of the city loom in a skyline of distance. It is God who has soft glowed the light . . . as one travels the outer drive, His sunshine is a master-piece of marvel.

But natural beauty fades into the background . . . ahead, in the distant, for the heavenly motorist, more beautiful than sight, is the skyline surpassing all.

It is simply beautiful! It is a dream of color . . . travelling God's outer drive of faith, the view thrills the heart through and through.

" . . . ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God . . . and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, And to Jesus . . ."

Chicago has its own character. The lake, mirror of sunshine and light, adds an air of pleasantness.

There are canyoned walls of towers. At first hand, the distant now becomes the distinct, in that we are there. Inside, the people have clear features . . . they talk.

Actual experience in the for ever becomes part and parcel of what actually is.

There is that beautiful skyline looming in loveliness.

We shall be there. We will not even have a vague line of "just being fitted".

The distant is now the experience. Loved ones are natural and real, clear and distinct.

Backward is fashion that is clumsy, ornate, dead. Ahead is the skyline that thrills of God's trend of tomorrow.

"Little children, it is the last time:"

The symphony of song at 2122 Sunnyside is sunshined pleasantness.

Noon-tide singing commenced with "It is Well With My Soul".

In this very Chicago lived a certain man, his wife, and their four children.

In 1871, the fire roared in devastating proportion. Great billows of smoke towered over the city. The flames reddened the night.

This family suffered the loss of home and earthly possessions.

Two years later, mom and the kids were sent on their way to Europe. Dad wanted to really dig in, and gain that which fire had destroyed.

The ship collided with another in mid-ocean. Mother knelt on deck. With her were the children. She asked

A Sermon of Our Departed Brother, Ernest Graf

Submitted by Brother Menno Steiner, Sabetha, Kansas

Even as this woman was convinced that this was the Christ, so does the Lord convince the upright souls of today that He is indeed the Son of God, that came into this world to seek and to save that which was lost.

He reveals himself to a seeking soul. The Lord said, I will be found of them that seek me. And it is truly so. If an upright soul seeks a refuge of safety, that soul will find that God so loved the world that He sent his only begotten son, that whosoever believes in him shall not perish, but have everlasting life, and this life which is everlasting is not meant for only a few. It is meant for all who will reach out their hand and lay hold upon it.

Oh, our preaching today is the same as in the day of John the Baptist and when Christ began His ministry — Repent, for the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

Already one of the prophets testified and said, It is not above in the sky where men cannot ascend, it is not down in the depth where man cannot descend, it is not across the sea where man can not reach it, but it is here present with us, where each and every one can have it and can receive the blessings thereof.

It does not require money or wealth. It requires only an upright and sincere heart. That is all the Lord asks, Come unto me ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

If we bring our heart, that is all that He asks. He will purge and cleanse it from sin and unrighteousness. He will set up His throne therein. He will make it the habitation of the Lord.

And what else is there that can comfort us in the trials and the burdens, the storms and tempests of this life, excepting peace of God, which surpasseth all understanding? That peace He offers unto you, dear Friends, even as He said to the disciples—Peace I leave you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world gives, do I give—. He said, “Let not your heart be troubled” and “you believe in God, believe also in me.”

That same word holdeth good today, beloved. If there is a soul, weary of sin, and hungry for grace, let him come to the Saviour, and his burden can be lifted; his heart can be cleansed; his spirit renewed and a new creation created in that heart.

The old will pass away, all will be made new, and all such then receive the Spirit and the nature of God himself, because they are then His children. He gives to them His Spirit, who leads them on the way of truth and righteousness.

Ye Must Be Born Again—

the Saviour, who has broken the yoke of Satan, and who is able to make those who believe and obey Him truly free. But often this wisdom is not so quickly learned.

The human heart is proud, and is loath to confess itself, thus unable to free itself. So the struggle goes on. Sometimes the soul has victory and rejoices therein; then again, it suffers defeat, finding itself overcome by the power of sin to do what it would not<sup>1</sup>, and goes down into the depths of sorrow, being condemned of its own conscience. “O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?"<sup>2</sup>

UNDER THE LAW

Thus, the soul is brought under the law. Ever trying to keep the law of righteousness to be justified thereby, but often failing, it finds no satisfaction and no peace.

No, this is not the way to attain the newness of life. This is patchwork, mending a rent here, while a greater one appears elsewhere, overcoming one weakness by a concentration of the will, only to find oneself fallen into another and perhaps greater one. This is the error to which Jesus refers when he says, "No man also seweth a piece of new cloth upon an old garment"<sup>3</sup>. Christ means by these words to warn us against patchwork, against efforts to mend and improve the old natural life, in order to attain virtue and be justified before God.

The remedy is not to improve our natural life, but to give it up, to lose it, as Jesus said, "whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall find it"<sup>4</sup>.

Paul said strikingly to the Romans, "our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin"<sup>5</sup>. Now, we were not physically crucified with Christ, but we are crucified with Christ, when through repentance our sinful nature, the sinful life, is nailed to the cross and perishes.

Thus, the way is paved for the new life, for the new birth, as Christ said to Nicodemus: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God"<sup>6</sup>.

But what is more natural than Nicodemus' question: "How can a man be born when he is old?" Or the question of the prison keeper to Paul and Silas, "what must I do to be saved?"<sup>7</sup>

(To be continued)

Quietness

The beaches break high with sick'n'g thud;

Wild storm shrills, 'bout those true
Saints hearts ponder of time foretold,
Joy in Testament new.

Dark sea simmers sick of scummy ink,
Packed of sin, wreathed of woe.

The end, the end soon comes, as taught,

To hide, where can we go?

Above the roaring water-fall,

While night rolls fierce with storm,
God builds His place of sheltered peace,

Of His own heart . . . kept warm.

Henry Souder, Jr.

God to save them . . . or make them ready to die.

Quickly the ship sank . . . mother was pulled to safety, unconscious.
But the little ones were gone. Their place was so vacant.

From Wales, she sent the cablegram, "Saved alone." Dad's sad heart read the touching line.

Then he said, "It is well; the will of the Lord be done!"

So, when our days become tearful
. . . when we need the joy, springing from the horizon of the skyline, we may look above . . . and sing the words of this man's heart, written through him:

"When peace, like a river, attend-
eth my way,

When sorrows, like sea billows,
roll;

Whatever my lot, Thou hast taught me to say,

It is well, it is well with my soul."

"Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself . . ." ". . .
yea, in the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast."

<sup>2</sup> Romans 7:24 <sup>3</sup> Mark 2:21 <sup>4</sup> Luke 9:24

Brother Ernest Knecht selected the beautiful Zion's Harp 212, "The 23rd Psalm".

It was a fitting conclusion.

In these dark times, the Psalm of the Shepherd is the life of the Pilgrim.

As the clock turned, the skies of Chicago became sombre.

But when earthly light fades, then, oh then, how beautiful the skyline of hope, soft with heaven's glow!

On the lake, the angry white-caps showed their teeth. The rolling waters chanted their restless refrain. They mused their moaning dirge.

In this world, the human ocean is tossing and moaning. As the complex currents simmer down, it is becoming so similar to the remarkable maps, drawn of human ocean in holy scripture, of those dangerous currents of the end.

"When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation . . . Then let them which be in Judaea flee . . ."

The huge pier at Chicago was a busy place. Nation after nation had exhibits at the World's Trade Fair.

There was Israel . . . a new-comer among the nations for recent times.

The consul was there to help. Young people were also there. One with his own mouth told in the affirmative that he was from Israel.

Among the pamphlets given free of charge was one entitled "Israel: 1960". The population has soared from 790,000 in 1948 to 2,064,000 . . . the land under cultivation has increased from 412,000 to 1,100,000!

Before the people of Judaea could flee, they had to be in the land. But now they are there.

How close are we to entry into the dark, billowing, high dashing breakers of the end?

" . . . they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever."

It does not matter if the end forecloses its mortgage, long standing. Ahead is eternity's horizon, breaking beautifully bright with hope.

This time is only temporary . . . a momentary motel for the motorist on his way to the heavenly haven.

Look! The skyline is soft and blue jeweled, bright and beautiful. It is a radiant rainbow of redemption . . . a glorious panorama of pleasantness . . . a symphony of splendor . . .

It is the joyful, jubilant, glorious thrill of coming HOME!

Silently

Silently, silently
Sleep the peaceful dead;
Mournfully, sighingly
Tears o'er them shed.
Tho' the dust to dust returneth,
Yet their spirits now have gone
To the God of love, who giveth;
And their works to follow on.

Silently, silently
 They are laid to rest,
 Free from care, over there
 Dwelling with the blest.
 They shall bear no more life's burdens,
 Sickness, sorrow, death or pain;
 In that spirit land they're waiting,
 Where with Christ their souls shall reign.

Silently, silently
 Crossing o'er the tide,
 Hopefully, peacefully,
 Gone where saints abide.
 Cease thy sorrow and thy weeping;
 Brush away the falling tears,
 They're not in the cold grave sleeping,
 But they live in endless years.

Silently silently
 We await His call,
 When we'll rise to the skies,
 Victors over all.
 In sweet paradise we'll meet them,
 On the morn when Christ shall come
 To awaken every bought one,
 And to take the ransomed home.

Refrain:
 Silently to rest we lay them,
 Empty is their house of clay;
 Unto God the soul returneth,
 Silently they pass away.
